History

The New London Garden Club was founded in October 1928, with 24 members. Dr. Anna Littlefield, physician, gardener, and botanical artist, was its first president.

Originally the purpose of the Club was to assist in the maintenance of the garden recently designed and planted at the library by the world-renowned firm, Olmsted Brother Landscape Architects. The planting of the grounds was part of Jane Tracy's generous gift to the Town of New London for its first library building and community center. Today the Garden at Tracy Library is an independent organization maintained by volunteers from the Garden Club and the community under the direction of a professional gardener.

During the Club's early years, it was known for the remarkable flower shows that funded the Club's ever-expanding civic beautification program. For many years the Club's major fundraiser was the annual Antique Show and Sale.

Today, Club members assist with maintenance at many Civic beautification sites in New London, and volunteer at the Garden at Tracy Library. In December, Club Members provide wreaths for public buildings in New London and make tray decorations for Bittersweet residents. The Club's monthly educational meetings are usually held on the second Tuesday of each month. All the educational programs are open to the public, and topics are varied but always with the purpose of enriching knowledge of horticulture, floral and garden design, conservation and civic beauty. Members are always welcome to bring a guest, and the public is encouraged to attend.

The Club's records are stored in the Town Archives in the basement of the Academy Building/Town offices. Of interest are yearly scrapbooks, flower show schedules (listing design categories, horticulture and special exhibits) as well as yearly calendar books.

Fundraising

Club income is derived from annual dues, contributions, and proceeds from fundraising events. This income is the source of funding for the Club's service projects, scholarships and donations to other organizations. The Club can accept tax-deductible donations through its certification as a 501(c)(3) organization.

Organization

Membership in the Club is open to any person interested in the purpose of the Club and willing to participate in its goals and objectives by fulfilling certain yearly requirements.

The Governing Board of the Club consists of the elected officers, the appointed chairs of committees and the immediate past president. The Board meets monthly, according to Club Bylaws, to conduct the business of the Club.

Meetings of the Membership are held at least eight times a year with speakers whose subjects relate to the purpose of the Club. All meetings except luncheon meetings are open to the public and to guests of members. Workshops and trips are planned throughout the year. The Club may produce a flower show every few years. The annual Garden Party and Holiday Party are open to members and their guests.

Three Publications keep the Club members informed: The Yearbook, published annually, containing the Club calendar and member directory; The Twig, the Club newsletter, published quarterly; and the Handbook, for Club members containing detailed information about all aspects of the Club including the Club Bylaws.
